

Made from locally sourced solid steam-bent Oak, the Fountain Bench was inspired by natural forms found within a forest, and evokes the liveliness of a dancing fountain in the wind.

It can function as a stand alone sculpture to bring natural flowing lines and materials to an urban environment, or rural setting. The Fountain Bench can also be used as a sculptural frame to hold climbing plants, making perennial features that will look amazing all year round.

Available for £4000 , please contact Alison at ai@charliewhinney.com for more details.

Three lengths of Oak start as one, then unfurl to form curving arcs and legs, creating a beautiful and robust bench that mimics the fluid asymmetry of nature.

Fountain Bench

Charlie Whinney associates

info@charliewhinney.com

